

This letter is from mothers and families who lost their beloved children and family members in protests of 2009, 2016, 2019 and within 40 years of execution and repression of Islamic Republic of Iran.

They ask from us and all the nations of the world to stand by their side for remembrance and honoring those who died fighting for freedom. They invite us to come together on the streets and honor their memory by lighting candles and holding their pictures. And most importantly, they want a truth commission to be sent to Iran to investigate and reveal the proportions of the crimes of the Islamic republic in recent protests. We use all possibilities to properly answer to this important call and try to send their message to all International organizations. We invite you all to help and join this movement.

For how long should we witness arresting, torturing and discrimination? We want justice! Our Children went on the streets seeking freedom and rightful life, but they got murdered by the forces of Islamic republic. The most recent protests of people in Iran was in November 2019. It was against the increase of fuel prices. Therefore, the freedom seeking people, who want to end poverty, discrimination and injustice, started marching on the streets of Iran. The government's response to them was with gunfire and silencing their voices by shutting down the internet and disconnecting them from the world. In these protests, hundreds of people are murdered, thousands of them are detained and under torture, and even more than 10 children under the age of 18 were killed. We, the mothers of those children, will not stay quiet. We, whose children are sacrificed for freedom and justice within 40 years, call upon the people of Iran and all nations of the world to announce the 26th of December as the international day for honoring the memory of those victims, and remember them by one minute of silence, holding ceremonies or any other way, and condemn these crimes. We also demand the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and Special Rapporteur on human rights to be sent to Iran, and organize a truth commission in Iran to work with supervision of the families of the victims and investigate and reveal the extensive dimensions of this crime, and to announce the number and identities of those who are wounded, arrested or murdered. We demand the truth to be exposed and the responsible people to be identified. We recognize these crimes as a crime against humanity, and demand all the agents of these crimes to be put on international and open trials to stop them once and for all.
